

REMARKS

Claim 1 has been amended to preclude any possible interpretation that a general purpose processor is a graphics controller. As now amended, the claim requires receiving a password and comparing the password using the graphics controller, but then booting using a different processor. None of the cited references teach using a graphics controller in the way claimed or using a different processor to boot after using a graphics processor initially.

Therefore, reconsideration is respectfully requested of amended claims 1 and 11.

Respectfully submitted,

Date: June 16, 2010
